

The functional areas in a business coordinate their efforts to understand and satisfy customer needs. Note that this is a simplified model, and that various companies organize their activities in different ways.